

SPECIFIC FOR SCROFULA.

"Since childhood, I have been afflicted with scrofulous boils and sores, which caused me terrible suffering. Physicians were unable to help me, and I only grew worse under their care. At length, I began to take

AYER'S

Sarsaparilla, and very soon grew better. After using half a dozen bottles I was completely cured, so that I have not had a boil or pimple on any part of my body for the last twelve years. I can cordially recommend Ayer's Sarsaparilla as the very best blood-purifier in existence."—G. T. REINHART, Myersville, Texas.

How to Treat a Wife.

(From Pacific Health Journal.)

First, get a wife; second be patient. You may have great trials and perplexities in your business, but do not therefore, carry to your home a cloudy or contracted brow. Your wife may have trials, which, though of less magnitude, may be hard for her to bear. A kind word, a tender look, will do wonders in chasing from her brow all clouds of gloom. To this we would add always keep a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house. It is the best and is sure to be needed sooner or later. Your wife will then know that you really care for her and wish to protect her health. For sale by R. C. Hardwick.

You cannot judge a remedy until you know its father and mother, and understand the responsibility for its existence. Ramon's Tonic Liver Pill is based upon the formula of one of the greatest physicians of the last century, and its wonderful success in curing completely all forms of biliousness and liver trouble is due to the remarkable compounding of its ingredients. Have you ever tried it for sick-headache? It cost you but 25 cents a box at the leading druggist. Sample pill free.

FOUND THE WHISKY.

The Unusual Experience of a Revenue Officer in North Carolina.

A remarkable story has just come to light in which figure moonshiners, a revenue officer, a beautiful mountain maid, cupid and bicycles.

In the summer a suspicion which the revenue department had long entertained ripened into certainty that there was illicit still somewhere in this vicinity which was producing large quantities of "mountain dew." The local officials being well known to the inhabitants, the department sent here a young man from New York, one John Dickson by name, whose instructions were to ferret out such information as he could get, while apparently occupied solely in fishing, hunting and otherwise passing a month's vacation.

The programme was duly carried out. Dickson hunted and fished and kept his eyes open, but not even a whiff could he get at the forbidden liquor.

Naturally he had to seek his information with the utmost care, and fearful of arising suspicion by direct inquiry he confined his efforts principally to keeping his eyes open and his mouth shut.

One day, nearly two weeks after his arrival, he took his fishing rod and journeyed in a direction not hitherto taken. Trying many mountain streams, he caught a few fish, but his spying efforts were as vain as heretofore.

Evening came on, and not knowing his whereabouts, he was delighted to succeed in getting out of the underbrush on to a good wagon road. Undecided which direction to take, he paused by the roadside a moment, when an apparition darted around the bend of the road which fairly took away his breath. A bicycle in this wilderness, and what is more, ridden by a most attractive girl! She saw him, of course, and as he admitted himself to be lost, she directed him how to reach her father's house, extending a cordial invitation to stop, with all the free good-fellowship for which girls hereabouts are noted. Then mounting her wheel she sped away, while Dickson hurried behind.

The farmer insisted upon his staying all night, and he did so. It was a case of love at first sight. Dickson being an expert woodsman himself, was captivated by the beautiful mountain rider. Moonshiners were forgotten in the next few days. Within a week he had his own wheel sent hither by express, and was more than pleased to comply with Sallie Newman's laughing orders that it must be kept at the farm. Every day they went out together, starting from the farm in the afternoon and riding through the leafy byways, frequently stopping at the residence of Sallie's aunt in the village for supper, and then going home in the moonlight.

Weeks sped away until one day Dickson was rudely awakened from his dream of bliss by a peremptory order from Washington to return home, his mission having proven fruitless. Sadly he started out with Sallie for a final ride. All unconscious of his woes, Sallie twitted him upon his strange silence, and then challenged him to a race. Away she sped, and he was sorely tried to keep at her side. Neither noticed the fragments of a pane of window glass, dropped on the road by some unlucky farmer, until too late.

"Hold on, our tires are punctured," shouted Dickson, jumping from his wheel; "by the great horn spoon, what's that," he added, gazing with amazement at a tiny stream of liquor spurting from both front and rear tires. A moment later the whole situation fell upon him. "Oh, you little moonshiner," he murmured, and then he let his wheel fall and sprang to catch Sallie, who had swooned.

For six weeks the valiant Dickson had been assisting, unaware, the moonshiners by carrying whisky in his pneumatic tires, inserted at the farmhouse and deftly removed by Aunt Jane in the village. Did he arrest the guilty maid? Not much. He resigned his position, and married her, and the happy pair now live in Philadelphia, where they are often seen on a tandem in the park.

It is scarcely necessary to add the tires are now inflated solely with air. —Philadelphia Times.

A Senator's Amusement.

Senator Brice wears out one eyeglass string a day when he is in his seat. He has a great fashion of taking off his eyeglasses and twisting the end of the string around his finger, then he lets the glasses swing out full length, to the confusion of any passing senator, often, and with a rotary motion sets the string to winding round his finger. When it is wound up he proceeds to unwind it, and that seems to be his sole amusement.

—He is so full of pleasant anecdotes; so rich, so gay, so poignant in his wit, time vanishes before him as he speaks, and ruddy morning through the lattice peeps ere night seems well begun. —Joanna Baillie.

The happiness of married life depends on the wife's health often more than on any other one consideration. An ailing woman is a source of discontent to herself and a burden and drag upon her husband. Women by taking more interest in their own physical condition would lay the best foundation for married happiness and every other happiness. More than half the suffering which ails the energies and sours the disposition of women is directly traceable to some disorder of the organs distinctly feminine. There is no real need of such troubles; they are invariably cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which reaches and strengthens the internal generative organs as no other treatment can possibly do. By restoring health and strength to this most important part of the feminine constitution, the "Favorite Prescription" gives new tone and energy to all the rest of the body.

One of the most deeply interesting and truly educative books ever written is the "People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," by Dr. R. V. Pierce, Chief Consulting Physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y. This splendid volume of 1008 pages, includes ninety pages on the subject of diseases peculiar to women, with directions for home treatment, rendering unnecessary the embarrassing "examinations," and generally useless "local treatment," so dreaded by modest women. The book contains the most comprehensive explanation of human physiology and the rational principles of hygiene ever published. Illustrated with over 300 engravings—a complete medical library in one volume. No other medical book in the English language ever had such an enormous sale. 680,000 copies were sold at $1.50 each. Dr. Pierce is now distributing a new free edition of half a million copies. A copy will be sent absolutely free to anyone who will send to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y., 21 one-cent stamps to pay cost of mailing only. The present edition is in all respects the same as that sold at $1.50 except only that it is bound in strong manila paper covers instead of cloth.

For every quarter in a man's pocket there are a dozen uses; and to use each one in such a way as to derive the greatest benefit is a question every one must solve for himself. We believe, however, that no better use could be made of one of these quarters than to exchange it for a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, a medicine that every family should be provided with. For sale by R. C. Hardwick, Druggist.

The showers of the last three days have given the parched earth in Kentucky a small wetting, but much more rain is needed to put the ground in cultivating condition.

Mr. D. P. Davis, a prominent lawyer and merchant at Graham, Va., has this to say on the subject of rheumatism: "I take pleasure in recommending Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism, as I know from personal experience that it will do all that is claimed for it. A year ago this spring my brother was laid up in bed with inflammatory rheumatism and suffered intensely. The first application of Chamberlain's Pain Balm eased the pain and the use of one bottle completely cured him. For sale by R. C. Hardwick Druggist."

COMMISSIONER'S SALE CHRISTIAN CIRCUIT COURT, KENTUCKY.

T. K. Torian & Co., Plaintiff against Equity.
Ex Parte Judgment.

By Virtue of a Judgment and order of sale of the Christian Circuit Court rendered at the September term thereof, 1886, in the above styled cause, I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Court-house door, in Hopkinsville, Kentucky, to the highest bidder, at:

Public Auction, on Monday June 1,

1896, at 10 o'clock in the morning, or thereabout, (being Court day), upon a credit of 12, 18, and 24 months the following described property, to-wit:

One large, rich, and well improved farm, situated in the Southwest portion of Christian County, immediately on the Cadiz and Hopkinsville road, near Gracery, Ky., containing 74½ acres, and consisting of three adjoining boundaries or lots of 18½, 2½, and 2½ acres, and 41½ acres respectively, and known as the McGary farm. Said farm is in a high state of cultivation, well watered, and well improved. The location is one of the best in the county; schools, churches and postoffice are near by. The vicinity is populated by some of the best families in the county. The lands are well adapted to the growing of wheat, tobacco, corn, clover, etc., and any one wanting an all-around good farm here is a chance.

The notes and bonds of said lands are set out fully in the judgment rendered in the above cause and can be had by referring to said judgment or applying to the undersigned. For the purchase price, the purchaser or purchasers must execute bond with approved security, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid, and having the force and effect of a Replevin Bond. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

W. T. FOWLER,
Master Commissioner.

This ratio of sixteen grains of silver to one of gold has been the measure of equality between the two metals since their first use as money by the United States.

There exists no necessity to change that ratio more than to change the length of a yard stick, or the number of ounces in a pound weight.

The ever busy brain of ahylocks is constantly at work hatching new schemes for embracement of their wealth and to rob producers of wealth.

Law making power is bribed, corruption in high places of trust and honor exists, and the evil times prophesied by the patriot Abraham Lincoln, now menace the very existence of our country as a power among the nations of the world.
